Fresenius Functional Foods Conference

On October 28, 2010, Diederick Meyer gave a presentation on the 5th Fresenius Functional Foods Conference that was held in Frankfurt. With the title "The novel dietary fiber market: multiple health targets and product chances" he presented how fibres such as inulin and oligofructose not only can serve the classical fibre markets, such as in bakery products and cereal bars, but also new markets based on new features. Among the latter the potential effects on immunity and resistance are important (for products aimed at "gut health"), but also the effects on food and energy intake, i.e. in products aimed at weight management.
